Jane and Katherine Lee, the Fox Baby Grands in The Two Imps, Feature For Today and Saturday at the Auditorium—Hank Mann in The Domestic Hound— Amateur Contest Tonight.

The new William Fox photoplay, "Two Little Imps," which opens at the Auditorium theatre today and Saturday, is worth more than the price of admission. It shows Jane and Katherine Lee, the five and seven-year-old stars, at their best. It gives them full opportunity to exhibit all their film genlus and they take full advantage of it. This is the first picture in which these popular little screen children have been starred.

As "Two Little Imps," left in the care of their Uncle Billy at a hotel, they help Billy in his wooling, they aid in reforming Billy's sweetheart's brother Bob, and finally take part in a battle that lands two burglars in the hands of the police, after the crooks have, as Bob's pals, attempted to rob his father's apartment.

They do all this in their own inimitable way. The picture is something new, something to be expected from the Fox studios, and something that should not be misseled.

Hank Mann in The Domestic Hound. The new William Fox photoplay

Hank Mann in The Domestic Hound, a Fox comedy, in two parts, and the latest Mutual Weekly, complete the programme. Amateur contest tonight at 8.30. Come early and get a good

Most melodramas have one bill thill.
"The Lone Wolf." Herbert Brenon's lattest Selznick-Picture, breaks all records by containing no less than three big incidents, any one of which would be sufficient to form the nucleus for a single production. This photo-melodrama is the attraction at the Breed theatre, today and Saturday. The first of the spectacular episodes is the burning of a big hotel by the Paris Apaches to conceal a murder. The second is a race between two automobiles through the streets at breakneck speed, concluding with one of the machines leaping fifty feet into a river through an opening drawof the machines leaping fifty feet into a river through an opening drawbridge. The third is a three-cornered fight in the air between aeroplanes racing across the English Channel.
There are many other strenuous moments in the story, which is best described as a multiple melodrama de luxe. A remarkable cast is headed by Hazel Dawn and Bert Lytell. The story is from the novel of the same name by Louis Joseph Vance.

Lathrop Memorial Missionary Society Opens Season—Class Circle Meets— Repairs in Progress at Woolen Mill -Rev. Dr. M. McG. Dana's Son Goes Abroad.

The September meeting of the Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society was held in the First Congregational chapel Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance. The president, Miss Susan C. Hyde, was in charge and spoke of the important meeting of the W. B. F. M. to be held in Boston in November. Mrs, H. L. Yerrington is delegate from the Eastern Connecticut Branch. Noted speakers and missionaries will be present, and on two evenings the pageant, Light of Life, will be given.

Passing to the study hour, it was noted that 27 copies of An African Trail have been taken. The West Central African mission of the A. B. C. F. M. is near the people described in the study book so an account of this mission was given. Great progress.

this mission was given. Great prog-ress has been made since its begin-ning in 1880. The New Testament and a few books of the Old Testament have been translated into the native tongue; a monthly newspaper is printed; a Jarge number have joined the Christian church; schools, churches, training schools have been and are being built; many useful arts such as agriculture and manual training are being taught.

In the study of the textbook An African Trail by Jean Kenyon Mackenzie, facts noted were—in the spring of 1916 the Bulu colony occupying of 1916 the Bulu colony occupying the Kamerun, West Africa, passed from the hands of the Germans under whose administration it came in the '80's, into the hands of the allies; the province of Kameran extends from close to the equator to 16 degrees north; liability of meeting danger at every turn and the wear and tear of a climate in Africa so near the equator leaves its impress on missionary and trader different from that in other climates; the influence of the white man in Africa, his settlements and trade.

of the white man in Africa, his settlements and trade.

The editors who have published Miss Mackenzie's articles requested the privilege of printing two chapters of this book in their magazine. She has been a missionary among the Bulu tribe and while on a furlough in this country in 1916 at the time of the transfer, received a cablegram to return and act as interpreter for the allies. Her knowledge of and sympathy with the Bulu people and hence her ability to give a correct impression made her services of such value as no one else there could render, the tribe understanding German conly besides their native tongue.

Dr. Dana's Son Goes to France. Word was received recently that Rev. Dr. Malcolm Dana, son of Rev. Dr. M. McG. Dana, for many years pastor of Park church, and who preached a Sunday or two at the First Congregational church, sailed this month from New York for France to take up Y. M. C. A. work. With him was Rev. Mr. Cross, pastor of the college church in Grinnell, Iowa.

I DO NOT LOVE THE PEACE THAT TYRANTS MAKE

By JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL

The best guide from old to new is Peace-Yet, Freedom, thou canst sanctify the sword! Bravely to do whate'er the time demands, Whether with pen or sword, and not to flinch This is the task that fits heroic hands; So are Truth's boundaries widened inch by inch. I do not love the Peace which tyrants make; The calm she breeds let the sword's lighning break! It is the tyrants who have beaten out Plowshares and pruning hooks to spears and swords-And shall I pause and moralize and doubt? Whose veins run water let him mete his words!

WHEN YOU THINK ABOUT IT

By FRANK L. STANTON

I reckon when you sorter stop an' think a bit about it, No matter what the weather is, we couldn't live without it! For when the rain comes rippin' down an' catches us complainin' If finds the flowers in Lonesome Town—the fields are glad it's rainin's I reckon when upon the road we're hiding out from weather It's sweet to think, for all the storms, we've got that far together: That one deep river's crossed, and so, one riddle we unravel; Though rough the way, 'twill end, some day; It ain't so far to travel! I reckon there's a Light to lead-if Life takes time to heed it, An' that the comfort that we need will come when most we need it! An' so, we'll reach the journey's end-rest to the weary given. And when the twilight dreams descend we'll not be far from heaven.

Maid—Yes'm. Young mistress—And tell her to be sure not to burn it .- London Opinion Geraldine (tearfully)—Jack, our en-gagement is at an end and I wish to return to you everything that you have ever given me.

Jack (cheerily)—Thanks, you may begin at once, with the kisses.—Eurr.

"I see where some woman says that when a man growis over his food it is a case of avatism."
"No, it isn't; it is just downright ussedness."
"Same thing."—New Haven Regis--Little Annie was ill. Her throat was sore and she was hoarse. Her mother suggested a mixture of butter and sugar as a remedy.

"Well, mother," inquired the young patient. "if it makes me well I'll be sugar-cured, won't I?"—Indianapolis

An interior of a country school-house was shown. A man enters and engages the teacher in conversation, after which she dismisses the class, with the exception of one little girl.

"Why is that girl kept in?" asked a boy of his small sister.

"Why," was the answer, "she is to act as chaperon."—Film Fun.

M. Arion and M. Juraschko two offi-cials of the Rumanian legation at Pe-trograd, were insulted in a tramcar by an officer who was a member of the executive council of the Soviet. The officer then had the diplomatists brought before the commandant of the garrison on a charge that they were spies. The diplomatists were at once set at liberty; the provisional government has expressed its profound regrets to Rumania, the offending officer has been excluded from the council of the Soviet, and further measures are to be taken against him.
